

My school picnic

I love picnics and I think the school picnic is an occasion that all students look forward to. I am grateful that the weather has been perfect for the school picnic every year. This year was not an exception. I had a wonderful day yesterday. At seven o'clock in the morning, my classmates and I boarded a coach to go to Butterfly Beach, which is in Tuen Mun and we had two teachers who were accompanying us. They are my favourite teachers, Mr Ma and Miss Chu. We felt excited and overjoyed.

When we stepped out of the coach, we were intoxicated by the beautiful view of the beach. All of us were cheerful and my class teacher, Mr Ma, helped us take lots of pictures. He likes helping us take photos on special occasions because he always says, "Time flies; only pictures can help us keep our memories." After that, we had a sandcastle building competition. Sally, Venus and I were in a team and we made a big sandcastle. Sally and Venus even picked some unique shells to decorate it. To my surprise, my team won the competition. Each of us was given a heart-shaped bottle filled with coloured sand as a prize. "Oh! It is meaningful," Sally said.

After the competition, we were hungry, so we had a barbecue. When we found a good place for the barbecue, we put down all our belongings. We brought lots of food like sausages, fish balls, marshmallows, bread and chicken wings. When we were unwrapping the food, it rained suddenly. "Oh no! We are unlucky!" Venus said disappointedly. In the meantime, we took the food and hid under some big trees because we did not bring umbrellas. Our English teacher, Miss Chu, thought that we should be optimistic about the weather and said, “Boys and girls, don’t be sad and we should always look on the bright side!” She suggested we sing some songs to kill time. It was the first time the two teachers sang with us. What a magical moment!

After fifteen minutes, the sky became clear. My classmates and I jumped for joy. We went to the barbecue pit again. We had lots of fun around the barbecue. Time passed quickly. We didn’t realize that the day was over. We needed to pack our belongings and went back home, although we were reluctant to do so. I enjoyed the school picnic very much and I hope to have another memorable experience with my teachers and friends soon.
